

Stanford Center at Peking University Summer Symposium

Tackling China's Non-Communicable Diseases – Shared Origins, Costly Consequences, and the Need for Action

Date: Wednesday, August 6, 2014

Time: 8 AM through lunch

Location: Stanford Center at Peking University

Organizer: Stanford Prevention Research Center, Peking University

Objectives: Highlight the public health threat posed by non-communicable diseases. Emphasize the role of research in developing an effective response.

Featured Speakers

Sanjay BASU (Stanford Prevention Research Center)

Linhong WANG (China Center for Disease Control)

Lixin JIANG (National Centre for Cardiovascular Diseases)

Yangfeng WU (Peking University Clinical Research Institute)

Lunch will be provided to guests with reservations.

Make your reservation by sending an email to stanfordpku@163.com

Please include your name, title and affiliation.

You will receive a detailed symposium agenda and directions to the Stanford Center
once your reservation is confirmed.

STANFORD PREVENTION
RESEARCH CENTER
the science of healthy living

SCP KU
STANFORD

STANFORD CENTER AT PEKING UNIVERSITY